

Tara Riverboat

To avoid all the scam and hassle, we can highly recommend you a set tour with Tara Riverboat. Tara is a 41 metres long boat, almost a hundred years old. It was originally build as a cargo vessel travelling from Vietnam to Cambodia via the Mekong River. Tara has now been renovated into a beautiful, laid back restaurant, and it is situated right next to the floating Villages. This charming old boat is the perfect place for a quiet and lovely sunset after a tour exploring the life of the people living in the floating villages.

Along the way to Tara Boat, you will pass rice paddys, lotus fields and stilted houses, before entering a small boat that will take you around the floating villages. On the lake you will stop at a floating crocodile farm and learn a bit about the life of the people on the lake. Sunset will be on Tara Riverboat, with a lovely meal and drinks included in the price.
